COLLECTION OF TAXES DELAYED

Revision of Rates in Four Districts Necessary To Include Levies.

TO START FIRST OF YEAR

Voters, School Board of LaRue Compromise on Special Rate.

Collection of taxes in Marion county probably will not start until Jan. 1 as the result of revision of rates in four districts. It was announced today by Bert J. Shelton, county treasurer. He was authorized by county commissioners to extend the time limit for tax payments to Jan. 20.

The districts in question are those affected by LaRue schools where a levy of 174 mills has been added following a compromise agreement reached by citizens and the county board of education. Addition of the levy has made necessary a revision of figures for property owners in that section, thereby holding up efforts of Shelton and County Auditor Earl E. Thomas to prepare bills for the December collection of taxes.

Voters in LaRue village and parts of three townships last month failed to pass a three-mill levy for school purposes, following which the state department of education arbitrarily ordered County Auditor Earl E. Thomas to include the levy in making up the rates. The townships which are partially affected are Montgomery, Grand and Bowling Green, which districts send pupils to the LaRue schools.

The voters fought the addition of the levy and at a meeting with the county board a compromise levy of 174 mills was agreed upon. Authority to order such an emergency levy is said to be vested in the state department of education under present Ohio laws, although after Jan. 1 the department may be deprived of such power if the state legislature revises the present tax laws, it is said.

1,700 CHILDREN AT CLUB PARTY TODAY

Marion Delphian Society Entertains Youngsters To Aid Needy Here.

All roads this morning, so far as the juvenile citizenry of the city were concerned, led to the Palace and Marion theaters where members of the Delphian club and the managers of the theaters entertained with children's parties. The price of admission was the voluntary contribution of fresh or canned fruits and vegetables, jellies and other articles. Proceeds of the event were turned over to the Family Welfare society at the Y. M. C. A. building for distribution at Christmas time to the city's unfortunate families.

Palace Thronged
More than 1,300 children were entertained at the Palace theater and 400 saw the hour's show at the Marion theater City firemen, under the direction of Chief T. J. McFarland were in attendance at both theaters to care for the children and aid in collecting the gifts. Employees of the theaters contributed their services and the contributions were transported from the theaters to the Y. M. C. A. building on trucks furnished by the Ohio Fuel & Gas Co.

Children of the Marion County Children's home and the youngsters from the crippled children's school were guests at the shows. The children from the home were transported in the school bus while the children of the crippled school were transported through the courtesy of the Yellow Taxi Co. SHEPARD MURDER TRIAL REACHES END

Defense Attorney Makes Plea to "Common Sense" of Jury in Major's Trial.

By The Associated Press
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 20.—Final arguments were completed at 12:45 p. m. today in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, army medical officer accused of fatally poisoning his wife, and the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

A recess was taken until 2 p. m. at which time Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins announced he would change the jury.

Making the final defense plea Harry S. Class, Denver attorney today termed the case the government presented against Shepard a "fantastic fairy tale."

Class appealed to the "common sense" of the Kansas jury and held up to ridicule much of the government testimony which seeks to prove Shepard killed his wife so he might marry a young stenographer of whom he became enamored.

These few lines from the Book of Books will be celebrated with joy and thanksgiving in Marion churches Sunday. Gay wreaths and Christmas trees and holly will brighten the houses of worship. The world will rejoice, and Marion's churches have made extensive preparations for stately pageants and children's programs.

St. Mary's Catholic church will celebrate the Birthday of the King with solemn ceremony Thursday. Candles will glow upon the altars.

High Mass at 8 a. m.
Solemn high mass will be celebrated Christmas day at 8 a. m. and every hour after that until 11 a. m. low mass will be solemnized. Solemn high mass will again be celebrated at 11.

Many of Marion's churches are celebrating advent, the season of preparation for the coming of the Christ child. It was in this season of four weeks that Mary and Joseph were going to Bethlehem to meet the king's demands that every man return to the place he was born and pay his taxes in that place.

Pageants, several of them having casts of 100 or more, are prominent on Sunday night programs. Several churches are giving cantatas, and one is announcing a sacred musical. Another is holding a candle light service.

Two churches, Forest Lawn Presbyterian and Trinity Baptist, will hold white gift offering services Sunday morning. Members of both churches will bring articles of food, wrapped in white, which will be placed in baskets and distributed to the poor on Wednesday.

LUCAS ADMITS NORRIS ATTACK

G. O. P. Executive Director Tells of Effort To Defeat Party Independent.

LITERATURE CIRCULATED

Says Drive Made at Request of Regular Republicans in Nebraska.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, acknowledged before the senate campaign committee today that he had ordered literature circulated in Nebraska in the last campaign against Senator Norris, Republican.

Lucas said the literature cost $4,237, and was provided at the request of regular Republicans of Nebraska who were apprehensive lest Norris—a Republican independent—would be elected.

He said the money was a "personal contribution" and he wanted to see Norris defeated because he considered him (Norris) a Democrat, in view of his opposition to Coolidge and Hoover.

The placed the printing order with Charles I. Stangle, editor of the National Farm News, printed locally. It consisted of cartoons on the "wet and dry question," pamphlets of editorials on Norris, and a reproduction of a letter to Nebraska Democrats by the "Democratic Victory Scouts," asking them to vote for Norris, which had a postscript asking votes for Hitchcock.

ONE STEAMER SINKS IN SEA NEAR DENMARK

Brothers in Command of Two Vessels That Crash in Fog.

ONE RESCUES THE OTHER

Ships and Planes Rushed to Scene in Hunt for Bodies and Survivors.

By The Associated Press
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 20.—Forty-five persons, including 17 passengers of the Finnish liner Oberon, are believed to have perished in a heavy fog off Læsø island last night when the Oberon collided with the Finnish steamer Artcurus in a heavy fog.

Today the steamer Svensund, which brought Andrea's remains out of the Arctic, broke through the fog seeking additional survivors. The Artcurus with a hole in her bow proceeded to port. The tragedy was heightened by the fact that the captain of the two steamers were brothers, Eric Hjelt commanding the Oberon and Ossi Hjelt the Artcurus.

Reporters Many Injured
The captain of the Artcurus radioed that he had 36 people from the Oberon safely aboard, but he requested a doctor and medical supplies be sent out to meet him since many were seriously injured.

The famous British cricketer, J. W. H. T. Douglas, and his father, were believed to have been among those who lost their lives. There was a report that Eric Hjelt had been saved by his brother, Ossi Hjelt, the skipper of the Artcurus.

Among the passengers rescued was the English girl, Phyllis Tipping, a secretary at the American consulate at Helsingfors, who telegraphed her father in Surrey, England, that the Oberon had gone down in four minutes.

Bodies Picked Up
The Danish steamer Garm picked up several bodies in the vicinity of the crash and was bringing them here. The steamer Hengist, which rescued four of the Oberon's crew, reported that the captain of the foundered vessel had been taken aboard his brother's ship with his first and second mates.

The fog was so thick about the scene of the collision this morning that those aboard rescue ships were unable to see far enough ahead to locate lifeboats or survivors who might possibly be floating around.

FIFTH ROBBERY IN TWO MONTHS

Cash Register Looted After Bandit Forces Employees to Rear.

Special To The Star.
BUCYRUS, Dec. 20.—The fifth robbery in two months at the South Sandusky Avenue Kroger store has been reported today. A masked robber Friday night entered the store and held up the manager and clerk with a gun. The cash register was robbed of between $50 and $100. The man made his getaway in a small car.

The robber entered the store when there were no customers present with his face completely hidden by a large handkerchief. He ordered the manager who was arranging cases on a shelf to descend and walk to the back of the store where the clerk was working. Both were ordered to raise their hands and keep them up. They complied while the bandit rifled the cash drawer.

No description of the robber other than that he was of medium build and poorly dressed could be gained from the two store employees who were unable to obtain the license number from the car in which the robber drove south from the store. Whether the robber was accompanied by another man could not be ascertained by the clerks who had been warned to remain at the back of the store until the bandit made his getaway.

Cecil Bush is clerk and John Korn is manager of the store.

MT. GILEAD, Dec. 20.—A meeting of the school superintendents of the county was held in the office of County Superintendent H. O. Hanna Thursday night to decide on the method by which the girls' basketball championship is to be determined.

The decision was to base the standings on a percentage basis. Schedules were not arranged with this in mind and a few of the teams play the same number of games with other county teams. No other method was suggested and for this reason the majority favored the plan agreed upon.

UPPER SANDUSKY MUSEUM CLAIMS ORIGINAL MODEL OF PHONOGRAPH

Special To The Star.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Dec. 20.—"The First Talking Machine," under that heading a queer combination of iron and wood, the product of an Upper Sandusky man, is being displayed in the museum here.

The machine, it is claimed, was invented three years before Thomas A. Edison announced publicly his first phonograph. The crude instrument here was constructed by the late Landolph L. Stevenson, between 1879 and 1884. Edison's machine was announced in 1878.

The machine consisted of a wooden base upon which was mounted a solid iron cylinder and shaft. The balance wheel located at the end of the shaft is missing as is the diaphragm which produced and reproduced the records. The inventor placed lead foil for the recordings around the cylinder. The motive power was produced by a crank.

THE tones were amplified by a horn similar to the mouthpiece of a telephone. This was carved out of a piece of wood, and had an adjustable support at the side of the cylinder. The entire machine weighs about 25 pounds and is about 12 inches long and seven inches wide.

EDEN VICT

HARDING CAGERS BEATEN BY DELAWARE

PRESIDENTS HANDED SECOND BEATING OF YEAR IN HOME GAME

Flashes for Winners; Merkel Plays Best for Losers.

Harding High school cagers suffered their second defeat last night on the floor of the auditorium, losing to Delaware 34 to 22. The superior play of the visitors was evident from the start. The score at the half was 12 to 12 in favor of the home team.

Delaware's brilliant forward play was the key to their victory. The team's offense was well coordinated, and they were able to keep the Harding defense off balance. The game was a close one until the third quarter, when Delaware pulled away.

Turley, Oller Star

Turley combined with his guard play to keep the Harding players wondering what it was all about for most of the first half. Oller, the starting center, controlled the tip-off but that was about as far as his control could go. The Delaware men simply ran rings around the Harding players, and then dribbling around them into scoring position.

Harding Offense Weak

The Harding offense, while it worked slightly better last night than in the Kenton game a week previous, did not show sustained scoring power. The defense appeared weak when pitted against the fast moving Delaware offense.

Harding launched an offensive drive in the third period that gave the Presidents two more points for the quarter than the Delaware total for the same time. Harding counted seven points to five for Delaware in the period.

Delaware turned loose another attack in the final period that the Harding defense could not stem. Both teams played with a large number of substitutes on the floor for most of the last quarter.

Lindsay and Smith both left the game in the last stanza via the foul route.

GREEN CAMP BEATEN BY PROSPECT; WALDO DEFEATS CALEDONIA

Pleasant Girls Pile Up Biggest Total in Victory Over LaRue.

Prospect High school basketballers nosed out Green Camp last night on the latter's floor 23 to 22. The play was hard fought and close all through the contest. Prospect led the battle at the half 13 to 12, and lengthened their lead to 17-14 by the end of the third period. Keller, Prospect forward topped the scorers for the two teams, counting six field goals and one foul for 13 points.

While the boys were having a difficult time obtaining a decision the Prospect girls were tramping over the Green Camp females 32 to 20. Keller, Prospect forward, connected with the hoop with consistency collecting a total of 15 points in the game.

Clardion cagers had little trouble in winning from the Martel proteges. Martel failed to score a single point during the first two periods while the winners were running up 12 markers. In the second half Gibbs came through with a pair of fielders and Goldsmith counted a free throw for all of Martel's points. R. Frayer took the lead in scoring for Clardion, getting a half dozen points.

Clardion girls took a one sided game from the Martel girls, winning 20 to 9. Wilcox, star center for the winning six scored 18 points, just twice more than enough to win the game.

In the third county league fray last night Waldo traveled to Caledonia to administer a 20 to 18 beating to the latter team on its own floor. Both teams collected seven field goals but Waldo charity tossed twice more than those of Caledonia.

The Caledonia girls made it an even break for the home teams by leading Waldo 28 to 20. The Timson sisters pooled their efforts to score one point more than enough to win the game.

Morral High school took advantage of an open date to hand Marselles a double defeat, the boys winning 34 to 31 and the girls winning 31 to 26. The game was played on the Morral court.

Pleasant Township girls handed LaRue the worst drubbing of any of the games played in the county league last night, running up 43 points to 13 for the losers. Elchhorn, forward, garnered 21 markers on 10 field goals and one free throw to lead the scorers.

The Pleasant boys had little more difficulty with LaRue than did the girls team. The boys doubled the count to win 28 to 14. Pleasant used 11 men in the game. LaRue held a lead in the first two minutes, but could not regain it after losing it at that point.

Kenton Catholics To Play Y-Indus Monday

The Marion Shovel Y-Indus club basketball team will clash with Kenton St. Johns in the Shovel gym here on Monday night. The Shovel club will be gunning for a seventh victory in the game.

The Kenton lineup is reputed to be stronger this year than usual and as it has always been represented by a fairly strong five, a stiff battle may result. The Y-Indus team has won six of eight games so far this year.

Western Reserve Grid Coach Resigns Post

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Dec. 20.—The resignation of Jack Davis, one of last season's three head coaches, added another chapter today to Western Reserve university's turbulent football situation.

Davis, who took over the team when Gordon Locke was forced to retire on account of illness, directed the squad for four games, all of which were lost. He also was mentioned in subsidy charges made by Robert Bader, high school football star who enrolled at Reserve and then went to Wittenberg, where he was ousted with 15 other freshmen on charges of receiving aid.

Reserve's athletic setup is to be reorganized, but no steps have been taken yet. It is expected that Locke will remain in charge of athletics, but that the Red Cabs will go shopping for a new football coach.

Crowd gathered at the University of Washington ended the first week of December. Spring training will start next March.

YOUTH VICTORIOUS IN FACULTY BATTLE

Central Students Wallop Teachers 53-39 in Annual Cage Game.

Size and age is one thing; youth and speed is quite another, as the members of the Central Junior High school faculty basketball team learned to their dismay last night as the student team handed them a neat 53 to 39 passing on the Junior High floor.

Evans, the Faculty center, was the only teacher able to penetrate the defense of the youngsters with any success. He hit the hoop for 10 fielders and a charity toss to score more than half the markers for his team.

The student team toyed around with the teachers in the opening period but loosened up in the next frame and started doing things in a big way. The score at the half was 20 to 16 in favor of the school boys and the gap was widened as the game progressed.

FIRST FOREIGN TRIP OF YEAR RESULTS IN ONE-SIDED DEFEAT

Local Irish Score One Point in First Half of Clash.

The first journey into out of town territory proved nothing short of disastrous last night for the St. Mary's Catholic basketballers of Marion. The locals traveled to Norwalk where the St. Paul team scored nearly at will to win the game 35 to 10.

St. Mary's failed to connect for a single point in the opening period while Norwalk rang up a total of eight. The situation went from bad to worse in the second frame as St. Paul added nine more while the local Irish could gain but one point, that on a charity toss.

In the third period St. Mary's came through with a short scoring spurt which netted them six points but the rally was short lived as the St. Paul defenses started functioning again and stopped the locals scoring.

St. Paul used more than two teams in the game. St. Mary's did one thing better than the winners and that was under the head of personal fouls. Two of the St. Mary's first starters went to the showers during the first half with four persons marked in the score book beside their names.

St. Mary's will carry their banner on another foreign excursion tonight when they travel to Springfield to meet a parochial team of that city.

SCHAAF IS WINNER

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Max Baer, young San Francisco heavyweight, has made an auspicious New York debut in defeat. He dropped a ten round division to blonde Ernie Schauf of Boston in Madison Square garden last night but most of the public acclaim went to the loser when the hard-fought battle was over.

Several games will be played during the Christmas vacation by N. C. O. teams, but none of them are very important. Callion will tackle the Mt. Gilard five tonight but after that it looks like the basketball players would have to get their exercise by walking around the thoroughfares singing Christmas carols. It is quite possible that some of them would get a lot of exercise—dogging mistakes hurled by persons who do not appreciate their efforts.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIMPATRICK

THE game which Harding lost 34 to 22 revealed the fact that the Presidents will need all the training they can get before starting the N. C. O. championship struggle on Jan. 2. Mansfield will be not born on that date in the first league game.

Probably the only good thing about having Harding start the race for the title on that date is that Mansfield will be providing the opposition. If it was any other team in the league I couldn't even think of it without feeling bad. It simply wouldn't be a good way to start the new year.

Mansfield this year, contrary to the usual custom, is weak. How long they are going to continue to put a weak lineup on the floor is just about as uncertain as the date when Harding will put a strong outfit on the court. Right now neither of them have anything to write home about but both show possibilities of improvement before the season is very far under way.

Experimenting with several combinations last night Coach Bohrer did not seem to have one on the floor at any time that seemed capable of going far in a tough race. However, the team showed improvement over the play in the Kenton battle and that alone is some encouragement to the followers of the Presidents.

The basketball machine is due for a sudden slowing down locally following tonight's games between the city church representatives. Few games are booked after tonight until early in January.

The N. C. O. league will start operations on the second of January with Ashland playing host to Bucyrus and Shelby traveling to Gallon for a game with the Gallon team. Harding will get to start its league season at home with the supposedly weak Mansfield team invading the confines of The Star auditorium.

The County basketball league suspended play last night until Jan. 2, a week later than Harding. The Sunday school circuit will swing into competition again on the sixth day of the year.

Several games will be played during the Christmas vacation by N. C. O. teams, but none of them are very important. Callion will tackle the Mt. Gilard five tonight but after that it looks like the basketball players would have to get their exercise by walking around the thoroughfares singing Christmas carols. BUCYRUS CHALKS UP SECOND WIN OF YEAR OVER FREMONT TEAM

Defeats Visitors 20-12 in Rough Game; Talbott, Seale Are Stars.

Bucyrus High's Redmen cagers continued to demonstrate good form last night by walloping the Fremont team 20 to 12 on the Bucyrus court. The game was the second victory of the year for Bucyrus. Last week they defeated Bellevue.

Both teams found difficulty in locating the net with any degree of consistency in the opening period of play last night and when the quarter was over the score was only 6 to 4 with the Redmen in the lead. It was even worse in the second stanza, both teams accounting for but two points each.

Bucyrus opened up an offensive game in the third quarter that took the Fremont outfit by surprise and left them floundering behind as the period was completed. The score stood 16 to 6 for Bucyrus at the end of the period.

Coach Winters injected several substitutes in the fray in the last period and Fremont managed to gain several points on the winners. The winners' defenses stopped them, however, before they threatened seriously to win the game.

Two Fremont men left the game on personals and several more had three charged to their credit. Seale at center for the winners and Talbott at forward demonstrated the best form for Bucyrus. Lineups and summary:

CHANGES IN MEDICAL PROGRAM ADVOCATED

Yale Dean Places Stress on Need of Humanization Policy.

By International News Service.
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Medicine must abandon its isolated position and must cooperate with other fields in order that a fuller understanding of all the factors bearing upon human welfare may be attained. To this end a premium must be placed upon intelligence rather than specific information in admitting students to medical schools. Teachers must be measured by their ability to condense, rather than expand their courses. Patients must be seen in all their contacts and must be dealt with as human beings in a world of reality rather than as detached pathological specimens.

Thus Milton C. Winteritz, dean of the Yale school of medicine, declares in a manifesto on the behalf of the institution which he heads.

Following Dean Winteritz's address the university here has established an institute of human relations with the law and medical schools. The sum of $23,000 is represented in the investment fund half of which was contributed to Yale in the last two years. The combined expenses of the units attached to this welfare group now come to more than $200,000 a year.

A new building for the Institute of Human Relations has just been constructed here and the staff is being installed. The workers will unite in studying social, mental and physical factors in human welfare, which include the fields of medicine, law, religion, economics and sociology. The staff is to apply theoretical knowledge to practical problems.

The Yale medical school is about to add according to Dean Winteritz, a department of social investigation which will be on a par with the school's other clinical divisions. All university students will be given a chance to study the way people live and the relationship between environment and mental and physical health.

The Christmas Message

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. LAWRENCE A. WOOD Pastor Trinity Baptist Church.

Text, Luke 2:14 "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

ONCE more the Christmas season has come and once again we pause to meditate on the Christmas message. It is a message that is old yet ever new. It is the message of love, hope and joy. It is a message of love. That night when Jesus was born on earth God gave us a gift of love to all mankind. Because of the divine love which was revealed on that first Christmas men have been learning to love and to endeavor to live in peace with one another.

It is a message of hope. Jesus was born in a stable and thereby God reached to men that he was a gift to all classes of men even the most lowly. Jesus' life was in harmony with his birth. He dwelt in humble homes where poor men lived. He taught that the love of God includes all conditions of men. Ever since Jesus came to earth the poor and the oppressed have looked up and cherished hope in their hearts.

It is a message of joy. There is joy today among men. It is to be seen on every hand, the gifts, the evergreens, the greetings of friends the surprise of the children, the countless kind deeds done for others. Best of all is the joy sent from heaven which is in the hearts of multitudes who have learned to know and love the Saviour.

The beauty of Christmas is not in things material, but in that which is of the soul. It is to be found in the reception of God's good gifts of love, hope and joy. It is to be bestowed by men, one to the other, of love, peace and good-will of which again Christmas is the reminder.

WHITE INAUGURATION PLANS UNDER WAY

Launched After Appointment of Marysville Man as Adjutant-General.

By International News Service. COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—With the appointment of Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson of Marysville as adjutant general of Ohio, plans for the inauguration of Governor Elect George White on Jan. 12 were set in motion today.

Gen. Henderson, it was stated, will immediately take up the work of arranging the inaugural program. He will cooperate with the Columbus Chamber of Commerce which for many years has played an important part in working out inaugural programs for the inauguration into office of the chief executive of the Buckeye state.

Governor Elect White announced his selection of Gen. Henderson as adjutant general last night. It was the governor's first appointment. Gen. Henderson will assume the duties of his office, which incidentally pays $625 a month on Jan. 12.

Henderson served as adjutant general during the three terms of former Governor Vic Donahey—from 1923 to 1929. He directed the relief work of Ohio national guardsmen following the Lorain tornado in 1924 and had charge of the relief activities of state militiamen in the coal mining districts in 1927 and 1928 in connection with the nationwide coal strike.

During the World war, Henderson performed front-line service in France. Henderson owns and operates a couple of large farms near Marysville. He has a wife and son Frank D. Jr.

HATCHER LOSES PEN APPEAL

Appellate Court Refuses To Grant New Trial to Man Convicted Here.

The chances of W. J. Hatcher's penitentiary term of 10 years being reduced to 5 years by a new trial were lost today when the appellate court refused to grant a new trial. Hatcher was found guilty of carrying goods in violation of a parole in the month of May.

In making his appeal, Hatcher declared that he had been prejudiced as a result of the trial. While it was admitted that Hatcher was prejudiced, the appellate court was unanimous in its opinion that the prejudice was not such as to require a new trial. The same facts are shown by admissions made by the appeal.

Hatcher was given a five-year sentence in the penitentiary last summer when a jury found him guilty of receiving stolen goods from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Watters on East Center street. Miss Beatty Hatcher, wife of the home, was found guilty of the actual theft and the court placed her on probation for a year.

L. E. Myers was attorney for Hatcher and argued the case before the appellate court at Lima Monday.

UNIONS VOLUNTEER TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Railway Men Sharing Jobs with Fellow Workers To Ease Distress.

By The Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 20.—Voluntary job-sharing is easing the distress of unemployment in three railroad workers' unions who hope to make their plan effective all over the country's lines.

Members of the brotherhoods of railroad trainmen, locomotive engineers and locomotive firemen and engineers have cut their monthly mileage, the basis of their pay, in order to create work for their idle.

The trainmen's union has put the plan in operation on a dozen railroads and is negotiating to extend it over the nation, according to Arthur F. Whitney, president of the organization. The firemen and engineers' group has effected reductions on many roads, while the locomotive engineers two months ago agreed to share their loss with unemployed members.

Under the plan, the picture is that the plan is insufficient to care for all the thousands of jobless railroad men. Whitney said even if the reductions were nation-wide, not all of the 40,000 idle trainmen could be employed, while David P. Robinson, president of the firemen and engineers, said his union still has 30,000 unemployed. Engineers are not much affected because they are given seniority preference, according to their president, Alvance Johnston.

The receiver's report showed assets of $746,277. Mayes said the company's income has been decreasing for the last few years and made that the basis for his abandonment plan.

bated, passed by both houses and signed by the chief executive.

The entire task was huge. There was plenty of senate opposition to reaching on the three points still at issue in the public works bill. Should it prevail more conference sessions with house delegates would be necessary.

The farm board bill was held up yesterday by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who wished to ascertain what was going to be done with the money.

The agriculture department has advised the house appropriations committee it would not be necessary to appropriate any of the $45,000,000 for drought relief before the Christmas holidays.

Preliminary Work Necessary

Chairman Wood of the committee said today he had been informed that if the funds are supplied immediately after the holidays, they would be available soon enough because of the preliminary work that has to be done before the money can be dispensed through loans to farmers.

Wood's committee will hold hearings during the holidays to ascertain how the money is to be used under the legislation loans are to be made by the secretary of agriculture to drought-stricken and hail-stricken farmers for feed, seed and fertilizer.

SESSION CALL UNLIKELY

President Not to Issue Call for Court Action, in Report.

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—President Hoover was said at the White House today to have no intention of calling an extra session of the senate to consider the World court.

The only thing that would cause him to call an extra session of congress, it was said, would be the failure of some of the world court signatories to ratify the treaty.

Republicans of the senate for sign relations committee including friend and foe of the World court voted this week to defer consideration of this question until next December.

Daily Proverb—"If you can be well without health, you may be happy without virtue."

"One of the greatest luxuries in the world at the present time," remarks Dr. Allen Hoben, "is to be let alone." And one of the fewest number enjoy.

A Chicago youth, who insisted on conducting his own defense on a murder charge, was given a sentence of ninety-nine years. It probably wouldn't have been any longer had he permitted a lawyer to handle his case.

The Archbishop of York says that "It is good for religion that there should be some atheists, whether it is good for the atheists or not." And he's right about it. Examples of extreme lessons are often effective in the extreme.

The four British six-inch-gun cruisers of the Leander class are capable of making thirty-five knots and can elevate their guns to seventy degrees, which gives them great range and makes possible the use of them against aircraft. Vessels like that should prove real agencies for peace, if we get the naval view correctly.

A story from Nice, France, says "the man in a sack suit is welcomed along the Riviera in the evening now." So far as we are able to learn, he has been for years if he had the appearance of having the cash. It would just about cause the average French resort proprietor to have heart failure were he to discover that he had let a dollar get away.

At almost the same hour one Chicago bandit was shot and killed by a storekeeper he was attempting to hold up, another was killed as he was leaving a store which he and four other robbers had held up by a patron who hit him with his fist. The decent element of Chicago seems to be getting hardballed.

A bill has been introduced by the Danish minister of transportation which provides that electric machinery which interferes with the enjoyment of one or more radio sets must be equipped with silencers or the owner of the machinery must provide attachments for the radio sets to stop interference. If we had a law along that line here in Ohio, we would run down the electric machine used out our way, about 7 o'clock nightly, to rectify whisky, or something like that.

Important Scientific Discoveries.
The Carnegie Institute of Washington has made two announcements which are sure to be held of great importance by the scientific world and are of interest to the public generally.

The first is that the determination of the mass of Pluto, the ninth member of our solar system discovered by Lowell observatory last year, shows it to be approximately the size of the earth.

The mass of Pluto was determined by Dr.
Seth B. Nicholson and Nicholas U. Mayell, of Mt. Wilson observatory, who have been observing and figuring on the motion of Neptune almost from the time of the discovery of Pluto. If there were no attraction from other bodies, the orbit of Neptune would be a perfect ellipse, but its orbit shows slight irregularities due to the new planet beyond it in space. The two Mt. Wilson scientists, investigating for the Carnegie organization in Washington, have found that it would take a body of a mass similar to that of the earth, subject to an uncertainty of about twenty-four per cent, to cause the irregularities they observed.

The second announcement is that Carnegie scientists have established the existence of what was a natural land bridge between North America and Asia by way of St. Lawrence Island in the Behring strait. The now barren island, which is about forty miles from the Kamchatka peninsula and 100 from the Alaskan coast, was once covered with giant redwoods similar to those of California, fossil remains of the great trees, which were discovered the past summer and brought away from the island by Dr. Henry B. Collins of the Smithsonian Institution, having been identified by the eminent Carnegie scientist, Dr.
Ralph W. Chaney, as identical with the big California trees. It is probable, according to Dr. Chaney, that something like 50,000,000 years ago the giant redwood forest was continuous from California to Kamchatka, and that St. Lawrence Island was a part of the land bridge connecting the two continents.

This view is in line with the scientific claim, which has been justified by an almost endless chain of facts, that man first made his way from the Old world to the New from Asia rather than from Europe as was at one time assumed. This would explain the color and features of the Esquimaux and the Indians and the presence here of many animals unknown to Europe but common to Asia and North America, the most notable of which are the great Kodiak bears.

A Fine Work of Relief.

When one reads that 425 persons received aid and that 2,100 articles of clothing, sixteen pieces of furniture and twenty-six pieces of bedding went out to needy families in the city during the first two weeks of its activities, some appreciation of the great work the Family Welfare society is doing through its commissary may be had. Such was the record up to December 13 as shown by its report, but figures, at the best, can not give full conception of the hardships the commissary has softened, the want it has relieved, the misery it has obviated. Only those in touch with the work of investigating conditions and relieving distress where found can appreciate the blessing the relief thus afforded has been to the unfortunate of the city.

And the work is not ended by any manner of means. It is going steadily on and will continue to go on as long as there is call for it and the more fortunate of the city give the work their support. There is yet steady demand for relief, not by "repeaters," for care is taken against imposition on the generosity of the public, but by new cases of misfortune which develop or are discovered from day to day. There is steady call for clothing and bedding, and contributions of wearing apparel are earnestly sought.

It may be said, too, that the workers at the Y. M. C. A. building, in which the commissary is located, will be glad to receive any money donations which the philanthropically inclined of the local public may offer, and promise to make good use of it in relieving distress.

There are many so-called philanthropies in which the bulk of the contributions is eaten up by the personnel of the organization conducting them. The Family Welfare branch of the Community Fund organization is a glorious departure from organizations such as these which absorb the kernel and give the shell of the contributions to the needy; whatever it receives in the way of contributions goes to those of the city who are in distress or on the verge of it. It is doing a fine work, a great work, and deserves aid and should be given the encouragement which is typified by cordial support.

The supreme court of Illinois has upheld the practice of demanding unnumbered property in bail bonds for criminals. Were that the rule the country over, the unemployment situation would be increased decidedly by accession from the ranks of the professional bondsmen who have been instrumental in the encouragement of crime throughout the country.

The Call of Christmas.

The call of Christmas bids fair to loosen up the legislative jam in congress, despite last-minute stands on matters at issue.

Senators and congressmen are anxious to be on their way back to family and fireside for the holidays, it is reported. They feel that Christmas would be more enjoyable if they could be relieved of worry particularly worry over unemployment legislation now awaiting their final action. Nothing could be more natural than to move it out of the way, to break the jam by cooperative action.

The house administration members forced the senate to accept the $45,000,000 compromise drought relief bill and it will go to the President in that form. In addition, they succeeded in throwing out an amendment making drought relief loans available for purchase of personal food.

In the senate, administration Republicans gained enough Democratic votes to release the $116,000,000 emergency construction bill from an amendment removing the President's authority to allocate funds from one category of projects to another. It was an amendment which Mr. Hoover disliked particularly.

The pledge of cooperation made some weeks ago by prominent Democrats is novel no longer; in fact, it has been greatly discredited. But results that good intentions failed to accomplish may fall in line more quickly in response to the holiday call.

Sir James Jeans, eminent British scientist and secretary of the Royal society, holds that the rings of Saturn are the fragments of a broken-up moon and that our moon will ultimately break up in like manner, after which we will have countless small moons which will light the earth much more brightly than at present and give us moonlight all night long every night in the year. He says also that another result will be the pelting of our planet every time two or more of these midnight moons collide. But then, the rule in this world long has been that there must be an occasional fly in the ointment.

Christmas Fire Dangers.

With business places showing Christmas decorations and the time being near at hand when Christmas trees in homes will be trimmed, it may be well to call attention to the annual warning against fires sent out from Columbus by the state fire marshal.

The list of the "don'ts" stressed by him we deem well to call first to public attention. It is a warning against carrying lighted cigars or cigarettes into stores. With decorations, often of a flimsy character, on every hand, a lighted cigar or cigarette in a business place is not only a menace to property, but to life as well, for a very trifling blaze may create a mighty panic in a crowded store.

Don't use inflammable ornaments on Christmas trees, says the fire marshal, who goes on to explain that lighted candles, celluloid ornaments and wool and cotton imitations of snow are particularly dangerous.

Make sure that the wiring on the Christmas tree is in good condition. Do not place too much faith in your luck.

Do not place a dry Christmas tree near an open fire. Grates and fireplaces should have screens in front of them, at all times when they are in use.

Do not use anything but slow-burning film in a home moving-picture machine. Many machines are placed in operation at this time of year by inexperienced operators.

Many a Christmas in the home which otherwise would have been merry has been spoiled and many made desolate by carelessness leading to tragedy. Exercise the utmost care and intelligence that this Christmas season is not spoiled by failure to take every precaution against fire in your homes.

Editorial Opinion.

OVERRULING THE SUPREME COURT.

With all respect for the opinion of District Judge Clark, of New Jersey, holding that the adoption of the eighteenth amendment was "invalid," we are bound to say that it is based mainly upon a prolonged regret or pious aspiration. He deprecates the fact that congress did not propose ratification by "conventions" in three-fourths of the states, rather than by their legislatures. He argues with considerable force that the method of convention would have been better. It would have made prohibition the subject of lively popular discussion before it was acted upon. It would have led to the election of delegates to the state conventions of a generally higher caliber than that of members of the legislature. All this is a plausible and respectable belief. But what has it to do with the question whether the eighteenth amendment was validly adopted?
Little or nothing. The fifth amendment of the constitution admits of two different ways of ratification. Congress, as was its constitutional right, elected the plan of ratification by the legislatures, and the supreme court of the United States has decided that this form was entirely legal and valid, so that the eighteenth amendment "by lawful proposal and ratification has become a part of the constitution."

In an article published in the Virginia Law Review for May, 1930, Mr. Henry W. Taft made a convenient collection of the various decisions of the supreme court bearing upon this very matter of the limitations supposed to be imposed by the fifth and tenth amendments of the constitution. It is not necessary to recite them here. But it may be confidently affirmed that every point argued in the case before Judge Clark, or in the other case pending in the federal circuit court, was brought to the attention of the supreme court, at one time or another, and by it set aside.
Perhaps the most significant decision pertinent to the contentions set up before Judge Clark, and partly sustained by him, was in the case from Ohio, raising the question whether ratification of the eighteenth amendment could not be referred to that state directly to the electors. The supreme court held distinctly that it could not. It said: "The determination of the method of ratification is the exercise of a national power specifically granted by the constitution; that power is conferred upon congress." In another decision the supreme court said: "The function of a state legislature in ratifying a proposed amendment to the federal constitution, like the function of congress in proposing the amendment, is a federal function derived from the federal constitution; and it transcends any limitation sought to be imposed by the people of the state."

It would be needless and otiose to multiply such citations. There is the less demand for it because Judge Clark himself appears to be fully aware that the highest judicial precedents are against him. He frankly expresses impatience with the legal rule of "stare decisis," apparently realizing that if he were to abide by it his opinion would fall to the ground. Indeed, he deliberately puts out of his mind what he calls "the stereotyped method of constitutional interpretation." His personal preference is to insist upon "scientific principles," free from the trammels which "a written document imposes." Along these lines his opinion in the prohibition case largely runs. In support of this remarkable judicial novelty he empties all his notebooks. Of him it might be said, as it was of Theodore Parker that he belabors his opponents "with the whole tree of knowledge torn up by the roots." Thus his whole opinion makes interesting if somewhat amazing reading. But the question of its judicial relevancy and binding authority is quite another matter.

Judge Clark himself appears to have her-selves doubts what will happen to his decision when it "meets with a cold reception in the appellate courts." Most lawyers would say, we presume, that there is no doubt whatever what will happen to it. It can hardly persuade the supreme court to reverse itself. Yet we heartily agree with Judge Clark that it is a good thing to set people to discussing again these aspects of our organic law. This object, it would seem, is the one which he had most at heart in making his decision. But the mind of this country is now much more busily engaged with the substantive evils of the eighteenth amendment than with belated debate over the method of its ratification.—New York Times, December 18.

Protect Children from Illness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Recently, the diphtheria commission of the department of health of New York City issued an uncomfortable statement. It is to the effect that diphtheria will probably be more prevalent this winter than it has been for several years.

This warning should be sufficient to prevent such a calamity. Diphtheria is a terrible disease, as any one who has come in contact with it can bear witness. But it is preventable, and there is no reason why every child should not be protected against it.

Although diphtheria is extremely contagious, some people will never take it. They are safe, no matter how often they may be exposed.
Such persons are said to be "immune." This immunity increases with age, so that only a small proportion of the adult population is in danger of contagion.

But with small children the case is different.
Very few of them are naturally immune, but fortunately all of them can be made so. The risk of infection is so great, and the consequences so serious, that every child should be tested to find out whether he is susceptible.
If he is, he should be given the treatment necessary to overcome the condition.

The procedure for finding out whether there is immunity is simple. It is known as the "Schick test," and consists of injecting into the outer layer of the skin a tiny drop of toxin.

If there is no reaction, the person is immune. But if the spot turns red and stays red for a week or so, looking rather like a mosquito bite, it means that the person is not immune. In that event he should be given injections of toxin-antitoxin to create immunity.
The toxin-antitoxin treatment is easy and harmless. Three injections are given, a week apart, and within six months complete immunity develops. There are no serious after-effects to be feared—no excuse why any child should not be treated.

Sometimes, the immunizing injections are given at once. In this case, the preliminary Schick test is avoided.
The toxin-antitoxin treatment in diphtheria was one of the great achievements of modern medicine. By its use the toll of the disease was cut down to one-third of the former figure. Its universal use would within a few years wipe out diphtheria entirely.

Whether this result can be achieved depends on what can be done with the very young children. The disease is most deadly among those less than five years old—the pre-school age.
They should be immunized as soon after the age of six months as possible.
But whether this desirable end can be reached depends almost entirely on the parents. The department of health of the City of New York has made it as easy as possible for every child to be given the proper attention, yet less than a quarter of the children under ten years of age have been immunized.
Until every child in every community is reached, we should not rest content.

The Genius of Newton.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In certain scientific circles nowadays there is a tendency, clearly discernible, to decry the contributions of Sir Isaac Newton. It is customary for those with a smattering of scientific knowledge, with whom the world seems cluttered as never before, to speak of the detrimen-ment of Newton.

Einstein is frequently said to have overthrown the system of Newton. Stress now is put upon a single one of Newton's contributions—the law of universal gravitation. Had Newton never formulated this law, he would nevertheless be regarded as one of the great scientists of history. It is well not to forget those other contributions of Newton which played such important roles in the future development of science.

Newton was endowed with a brain of extraordinary facility for generalization. His vision was orbis, his horizon cosmic. He saw things in terms of universals. It was fortunate for him and for the world that he was not hampered by adherence to any particular school of philosophy. Newton was a man of wide interests, being not only a mathematician, a physicist and an astronomer, but also a chemist, a theologian, manager of the British mint and a member of parliament. He shrank from public controversy, and it was only with great difficulty that he was induced to publish certain of his scientific discoveries.
He was a seeker after unity, universality, perfection of scientific knowledge; and he was not interested in publishing by piecemeal, as scientists do nowadays. He preferred not to publish his results until they were complete, and, as he believed, unassailable.

Certain events stand forth conspicuously in his life. When he first attended the King's school at Grantham he showed a little ambition; but later he became aroused, and finally he emerged head and shoulders above his fellows.
When he left the institution, so profound was the impression made by his intellect that the head master assembled the school in his honor and paid high tribute to its brilliant and profound scholar.

Another extraordinary feature of his career is the early ripening of his powers. Following his graduation from Cambridge university, Newton devoted himself assiduously to profound study and research. There is no reason to doubt that during the years from twenty-three to twenty-five he laid the foundation for his magic discoveries in science.

During the following three decades he was largely engaged in elaborating and perfecting the fertile and creative ideas formed in this early period. During his lifetime he was held in highest honor, revered and admired beyond bounds. The astronomer, Halley, after whom the famous comet was named, said that it was given to no mortal to approach nearer to the gods.

Newton made over the science of optics and gave it a stimulus it had never enjoyed up to his time. It has been said that his discovery of color refraction may be regarded as the most fundamental in the history of optical science. His work on optics would have made him a landmark in the history of optics. But this great contribution is almost insignificant as compared with his discovery of the principles and his formulation of the technic of calculus. All things considered, this is his most important contribution, because of its pervasive and far-reaching influence, in the entire history of pure mathematical science.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ohio Seemed Wild and Woolly.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Some valuable sidelights are thrown on early conditions in Ohio by the journal of Rev.
Paul Henkel, a Lutheran minister, who was sent by his church, in 1806, to travel through Ohio and preach to the German settlers there.
He left his home in New Market, Virginia, on July 7, and crossing the Ohio, near Gallipolis, held his first services in Ohio, near that place.

Passing down the Ohio some miles he then crossed the state to Chillicothe, where he Highland, Warren and Montgomery counties.
This was his furthest point west and he returned by almost the same route as was used in his outward journey. He stopped for the most part in the houses of settlers, of whom, judging by journal remarks, he did not form a very good opinion, as a whole.

Poor housekeeping was indicated in his complaint of attacks by fleas and bugs. Henkel carried his own coffee and the housewife in one place managed to steal a good portion of it. Drunkenness was common, and the reverend minister was moved to write down: "What an ungodly lot of people Virginia has already delivered to this fine new state!"

It was on his return trip that he preached at Chillicothe, which he reached on September 26. For some reason he was asked to hold his services in the courthouse—the same building, presumably, which was being used as the capital of the new state, then four years old. Very few came to hear him preach and inquiry as to the reason brought out the fact that there was deep prejudice among the German-speaking people against German ministers.
They seem to have been very frank in declaring this, for Rev. Henkel says: "We hurried away, as we did not want to hear the allegorical, mocking speeches."

He stopped for the night at the home of an old acquaintance, fourteen miles further on,
but the man came home in the evening, helplessly drunk. Drunkenness seems to have been the cardinal sin of the time. It is said that Rev. Mr. Henkel wore at his services in Ohio a clerical robe which had been given to him by General Peter Muhlenberg and which was the identical one which the general had thrown aside after preaching his sermon in 1775, revealing his uniform beneath it. The gown is preserved in the church museum at Mt. Airy, Pennsylvania, still.

JOE E. BROWN BACK IN TOWN TO PLAY "LOTTERY BRIDE"

Zazu Pitts To Play Opposite Man Whose "Face Is His Fortune."

BY HALLIE HOUCK

JEANETTE MacDonald, one of the actresses who can sing and still maintain a semblance of dignity and an even facial expression is the featured player in "The Lottery Bride" at the Marion Sunday and Monday. Two comedians, pardon one is a comedienne, Joe E. Brown and Zazu Pitts, assure the laughs for the picture.

Arthur Hammerstein, impresario of stage and screen is responsible for this dramatic opera. To make the comedy episodes triple strength, which is what most pictures need, he engaged Joe E. Zazu and Harry Gribbon, giant comedians.

None of the literary or musical material was adapted from published works or legitimate stage successes. Herbert Stothart evolved the original story with screen opera in mind. The musical score was written to fit the story theme by Rudolf Friml, one of America's foremost American composers of light opera.

BERT LYTELL IN "BROTHERS"

Twins in body, strangers in soul, is the difficult role Bert Lytell portrays in "Brothers" coming to the Ohio Sunday, through Wednesday. Dorothy Sebastian plays his leading lady. It's one of those dual role pictures that are always so interesting.

Lytell began his stage career at the tender age of three months when he was carried onto the boards by his mother. His first regular role on the stage was in Newark, N. J., as the boy in "Cumberland 61." He has made several hundred motion pictures and is one of the best known of the "old guard" on silent days.

Dorothy Sebastian is another of the actresses who danced her way to pictures. While appearing in an edition of George White's "Scandals," she was spotted by a motion picture producer and given a role in "Sackcloth and Scarlet." "Brothers" is an adaptation of the success stage play.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S GREATNESS MAKES FILM OUTSTANDING

History Making Period of Civil War Extremely Realistic.

A VIVID portrayal of events in the life of Abraham Lincoln is presented in the picture of the same name now being shown at the Palace theatre. The character of Lincoln is masterfully impersonated by Walter Huston and the picture is the charming and lovable Ann Rutledge, Mary Todd Lincoln is played by Kay Hanley. The picture is directed by D. W. Griffith.

The romance between Lincoln and Ann Rutledge ends abruptly with the death of Ann leaving the young student heartbroken. His marriage a few years later to the aristocratic Mary Todd seems something of a puzzle but the latter makes a good wife and is a great comfort to him in the hours of uncertainty in the White House. Outstanding characters of his torrid fame are presented in the stage between the north and the south and the scenes on the battle fields are realistic. There are dramatic scenes in which those close to the president want the war ended. Lincoln selects Grant to lead the Union forces and even the surrender of Lee is effected. The picture is brought to a close with the death of Lincoln in Ford's theatre.

The picture is outstanding in production and merit and is presented with a cast which comes something near to being all star. E. S. D.

Senator Johnson Will Give Talk on World Court

Senator Hiram Johnson of California, classed among the "nobles" in the Senate on the World Court question, will tell the United States should not join the World Court over the Columbia Broadcasting System from 8 to 9 p. m.

His talk is one in the National Forum series arranged by Washington Star. The California legislator will answer the question of the World Court advocates presented by Senator Arthur Hays Sulzer of Kansas in his Forum address on December 13.

The ever-important World Court question has gained attention by recent action of President Hoover who sent to the Senate the formula for America's adherence to the Court, requesting favorable action.

JASCHA HEIFETZ
Heifetz, famous violin virtuoso, will make his first appearance on the air Sunday at 10:30 p. m. in the Slumber Music program over a national-wide WJZ network.

Jascha Heifetz Will Broadcast For First Time

Sufficient stations to complete a transcontinental hookup will be especially added for the radio premiere of Jascha Heifetz, celebrated violin virtuoso, who will broadcast from WJZ in New York, on the Slumber Music program Sunday at 10:30 p. m.

An unique feature of this musical event is that two other radio periods, the Studebaker program and the Seth Parker program, will cede their time on the air in honor of the great violinist. This act of radio courtesy will result in a 3-station coast-to-coast hook-up, an insure Heifetz being heard in every section of the country.

Celebrated compositions with which Heifetz has thrilled great concert audiences throughout the world will comprise his first radio program.

A picturesque feature of Heifetz's debut on the air is the fact that he will make his own announcements. Following a very brief introduction to the radio audience.

CHAPTER 35

Leona reads A Message

MRS. FROST wrote at length to her daughter Amelia, now living in London, complaining bitterly of Fanny's latest perfidy.

"Unless you could see for yourself," the letter said, "you would not believe how four days with that woman have changed our darling gentle little Sheila. The child seems under a spell—sullen, defiant, utterly callous to appeals to her natural affections. The most we can get out of her is that she is sorry she caused us so much heartbreak and anxiety but not sorry she went to see her mother. Though obviously impossible, Sheila insists that the visit was entirely her own idea. Nor will she tell us how or where that creature—I cannot call her Fanny—managed to get in touch with her."

Ten days later Mrs. Frost wrote: "I'm sorry my letter is late but we're still having a dreadful time with Sheila. As she will not promise not to run away again, we do not dare let her go any place alone—not even to school. Last Thursday as David was preparing to make his weekly call on Mary Morton, Sheila said rudely, 'When you marry Miss Mary you won't want me, so why can't I go live with my mother?'"

"David, like a ninny, meekly telephoned Mary he could not see her that evening and has not been near her since. He is of course playing straight into that woman's hands, as Sheila would never have thought of such a thing herself."

The day before Christmas Mrs. Frost took her granddaughter with her to the bank, where she drew out a number of gold pieces as presents for the servants. At the teller's window they met Sheila's bachelor cousin, Albert Brownbeck, engaged on the same errand. Albert immediately carried Sheila off to select herself a gift, promising to drive her home. Sheila chose a small red bank.

"Why that isn't much of a present," Cousin Albert protested generously.

Sheila hung her head.

"Well—if you want to, you could put something in it."

Cousin Albert was never more than half bright; he slipped a $10 gold piece into the bank. But that night, while her father and grandmother were busy decorating her tree, Sheila locked her door on the outside, hid the key, crept down the back stairs unnoticed, and caught the midnight train for New York. She was headed off by telegraph and brought home in the early dawn.

"How could you?" Mrs. Frost asked sadly. "On Christmas Eve? Your poor father—who has already suffered so dreadfully! And now you, his own little daughter, whom he adores, to break his heart!"

"I guess he doesn't care how much he breaks my heart—or my mother's heart," Sheila half sobbed.

"For shame!" Mrs. Frost drew herself erect. "You have to know some time. You are almost 12 years old. No matter how you blind yourself you do know in your heart how patient and good your father is—how forgiving. But there is one sin that cannot be forgiven. Can you honestly make yourself believe that we would have taken you away from your mother if it had not been necessary, if she had been a good woman?"

Late the next afternoon Sheila followed Leona the cook up to her room. Sheila seated herself on the floor, her head against Leona's knee. They sat there quietly. Finally Sheila asked:

"Leona, what is the unforgivable sin?"

Leona hesitated.

"That's a question that the preachers been fighting over ever since Adam and Eve sinned their selves out of the garden. As far as I can figure out, it's maybe for one person to set about deliberate to make another think he or she isn't of no account—that whatever they do aren't worth doing."

Sheila puzzled over this.

"Did my mother do that?" she asked.

"No, honey. It never mattered to her whether people was black or white, rich or poor—she treated 'em all exactly alike."

"But Grandmother said my mother—committed an unforgivable sin."

"Your grandmother shouldn't ought to have said that I reckon when it comes to what we've been
